++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mainly dry with sunny spells. Feeling bitterly cold in wind.

Today:
Any snow showers soon dying out to leave a bright, breezy morning with sunny spells. The sunshine turns increasingly hazy this afternoon with patchy light snow across the south and west by evening. Strong southeasterly winds with coastal gales developing. Maximum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Tonight:
Some clear spells, especially for northern Aberdeenshire and Moray, but generally a cloudy night with occasional mainly light snow, or perhaps some freezing rain. Remaining windy with southeasterly coastal gales. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Sunday:
Generally cloudy, although some brightness across Moray, with outbreaks of sleet, snow, and perhaps freezing rain leading to icy surfaces. The snow turning to rain later in the day. Windy. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Rather cloudy, with only brief brighter spells, through into mid-week with occasional rain. Much milder with a significant thaw of lying snow and lighter winds than over the weekend.
